

BLOCKS THE WAY.

England Holds Out Firmly Against Silver.

Selfish Interests Prompt Her to Fight It.

LET EUROPE ALONE
And Protect Our Own People
Says Mr. Bryan.

WASHINGTON, March 2.—None of the silver men in the house of representatives expressed any surprise when informed of the discouraging remarks of the British chancellor of the exchequer Sir Vernon Harcourt, on the outlook of the re-assessing of the monetary conference.

Representative McCrory of Kentucky, who was a delegate from the United States to the conference, said: "The outlook does not indicate that an international conference would be held this year. There is, however, a growing feeling in Europe in favor of the enlarged use of silver. England has been in favor of gold notwithstanding for many years, but there are many able men like Mr. Balfour Sir Wm. Holdsworth, Sir Henry Moore Thompson, and others who favor international coinage."

"England has blocked the way more than any other nation and prevented an international agreement for many years, but I believe there will be after a while such a demand for international bimetallism that another conference must be held at Paris or Brussels." But it is probably impossible that it can assemble until several leading countries of Europe indicate a desire for the conference.

Representative Newlands of Nevada, said that he had no expectation that England would move for a re-assembling of the conference while the Liberal regime is in power. If the conservatives could secure control, he would consider the prospect brighter for an international agreement, since Balfour and other prominent men of that party were favorable to silver. He was confident that under this administration the bimetallic would not be taken by the United States.

Representative Bryan of Nebraska, said: "Those in this country who are opposed to any further use of silver in the United States except by international agreement are awaiting England's position." This dispatch indicates that England does not intend to join in.

"Speaking for myself, I have not expected England to join so long as she is so largely a bimetallic nation and therefore interested in the appreciation of gold. I am in favor now as I have always been of our legislating for our own people without regard to the wishes and threats of other nations and I hope the American sentiment will soon be strong enough to enable us to establish our own standard and provide sufficient money for our debts."

"Do you think this government is likely to propose another conference?"

"I have not seen any indications of such action, and there seems to be no encouragement from abroad."

Senator Allison, another delegate to the last conference, read the dispatch with the comment that he had known all the time that the United States would not propose another conference. Representative Blane said that the action of England was immaterial. He believed the United States should stand on its own feet.

"I never took any stock in this international business," he added; "I believe it is all humbug."

Ship on the Rocks.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 2.—A private telegram reports the ship Occidental of this port, together with the tug Tyee on the rocks near the coal port of Comstock. No additional information could be obtained.

Great Sample
Shoe Sale.
The Boston Shoe Co.
511 Kansas Ave.

Has bought over 2,000 pairs of fine hand-made spring sample shoes in men's, ladies' and children's, which they will sacrifice this week in the grand opening of our new store room, 511 Kansas Ave.

LOOK AND READ:

Ladies' fine hand turned and hand-welted $3.15
square and spectacles....

Ladies' fine Dongola cloth top in hand-welt and turned $2.10
World's Fair $2.10

Ladies' fine Dongola new Philadelphia square tip $1.45
shown....

Ladies' pebble goat and Dongola McKay sewed $2.10
shown....

Ladies' fine $3 and $4 party slippers $1.50
Ladies' Dongola kid and felt slippers 50¢ and 75¢

Children's school shoes 60¢ and 75¢.

Fine line of infant shoes ever shown in this city, manufactured by T. E. Wood & Co., Burlington, N.J.

Call and see the immense bargains in fine footwear.

REMEMBER
The Boston Shoe Co. have moved in their new room, 511 Kansas Av.

All mail orders promptly attended.

GUARDING HER CHILDREN.

Princess Colonna, residing at Monterey, California.

MOSTERLY, Calif., March 2.—Princess Colonna with her children and suite, under the guardian eye of John W. Mackay, Jr., arrived here last evening in his private car. A suite of six rooms in the hotel Del Monte, awaited them, and an hour after their arrival, the princess and her friend Mrs. Simpson, together with Mr. Mackay and Phillip B. Clarke, of St. Louis, took dinner in the main dining hall.

In the suite are four servants and a well built individual, who is said to be one of the most accomplished secret service gentlemen in the country. It is his business to keep an ever-watchful eye on the three children, lest they be spirited away by factitious of Italy, employed by Princess Colonna. Mr. Mackay says that he will remain with his sister constantly until the danger is over.

"I came to California," said the princess, "for complete rest, after the worries and anxieties of the past few months. I shall make the Del Monte my hotel for the present, visiting my old friends in San Francisco occasionally."

A. J. SMITH LIBEL SUIT.

A. Writ of Habeas Corpus Made Returnable Today.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., March 2.—The criminal libel case of Chief of Police Quinnes and others against A. J. Smith, the Populist leader, is on the desk of the U. S. marshal, circuit court, before Judge Anderson. Smith was recently tried by the grand jury in bonds of $4,000, declaring that the party was more unified than ever before. But this was succeeded by a session of distressing agony, which only yielded at intervals for a short or an outright quarrel, each quarreling more and more bitter until on Washington's birthday the condition was that of legislative insanity.

The dreary monotony of calling the witness and endeavoring to secure a quorum on the Bland bill to calm the jolts of the bill terminated most inappropriately on the day when congress ought not to have been in session in a really disgraceful squabble. The next day the contest was again on the question of privilege when Mr. Adams of Pennsylvania was at the bar one of extraordinary ability. Mr. Bland's fiery philippic against the Republicans, Mr. Reed's able argument that a present quorum could be counted by the speaker, Mr. Conpton's lawyelike plea for the sergeant-at-arms and Mr. Compton's argument on the general subject were all well worth hearing and had had their effect, but the gloom of the majority party is not yet lifted.

STARTLED AT CORRUPTION

London Times Affects to Be Afraid at Rotteness in America.

LONDON, March 2.—The Times this morning prints a column article on the history of the U. S. No. 2. of Comet Island. It says: "Everybody in a position to know believes that his downfall will have a decided influence in the way of purifying elections throughout the states of the union."

"It is startling, however, to think that such a career as this is possible in the very heart of the oldest and richest and most highly educated section of the nation."

OUR CONSTITUTION.

The Old One Won't Do Any Longer Says the Shawnee County Farmer's Alliance.

The Shawnee county Farmer's Alliance is holding a meeting this afternoon in the Populist lecture room in the Office Block on Fifth street. The question under discussion at today's meeting is stated in the following:

"Resolved: That the time has now arrived in the history of the republic when we need a new constitution and a new national co-operative system of industry that shall furnish remunerative employment to every able-bodied citizen."

WAS IT MERE CRUELTY?

A Patient in St. Joe Insane Asylum Dies of Injuries Received from Attendants.

St. JOSEPH, Mo., March 2.—T. B. Williams, a patient at asylum No. 2, died yesterday morning from the effects it is alleged of injuries received at the hands of W. S. Jackson, one of the attendants.

Wednesday Williams said Jackson had beaten him. He was examined by the doctor, and several of them found it broken, and he died yesterday. Jackson said Williams had attacked him and he was forced to throw him down, but used no other violence.

In substantiation of this statement, he showed a dislocated eye and scratches on his throat, which he said were caused by the patient. The coroner will make an examination as to the cause of Williams' death.

INDIA'S DEFICIENCY.

The New Duties Are Not Sufficient to Raise Revenue.

LONDON, March 2.—A Calcutta paper prints the following: Finance Minister Westland announced of yesterday's royal council that the deficit amounted to three and a half crores (A crore is ten millions of rupees).

The new duties proposed would leave two crores still unprovided for. The minister said that there was some doubt as to the actual proceeds from the duties and especially on silver.

Using War Tactics.

"It is a sectional question, but that is not our fault. Those fellows are extremely shortsighted. We think we were to injure the west. We should only injure ourselves, our stocks and bonds. A. W. Wright and others are interested in the property of the west, and if more money can be got from silver it would help the country. We should be set free, of course, but we have deliberately taken this thing out of the republican party especially."

It means, he added, that the wealthy in Wall street, of which so much is said, rather pleases very many if not a majority of the western and southern members. Most of them openly confess the obligation that whatever causes distress in Wall street and whatever checks speculation in grain and stocks is prima facie a good thing for the country. The long struggle has also made it pointedly evident that it is the policy of the money power to make every dollar on silver a source of a headache. And this does not mean the Republican party especially.

It means, he added, that the wealth of the country is in the hands of the rich.

"There is no end in talking," say these western men, "but to bring the fed up again. This is a sectional question, and we may as well treat it as such." And on this subject an eastern member of the committee on banking and currency says:

Using War Tactics.

"It is a sectional question, but that is not our fault. Those fellows are extremely shortsighted. We think we were to injure the west. We should only injure ourselves, our stocks and bonds. A. W. Wright and others are interested in the property of the west, and if more money can be got from silver it would help the country. We should be set free, of course, but we have deliberately taken this thing out of the republican party especially."

It means, he added, that the wealthy in Wall street, of which so much is said, rather pleases very many if not a majority of the western and southern members. Most of them openly confess the obligation that whatever causes distress in Wall street and whatever checks speculation in grain and stocks is prima facie a good thing for the country. The long struggle has also made it pointedly evident that it is the policy of the money power to make every dollar on silver a source of a headache. And this does not mean the Republican party especially.

It means, he added, that the wealth of the country is in the hands of the rich.

"There is no end in talking," say these western men, "but to bring the fed up again. This is a sectional question, and we may as well treat it as such." And on this subject an eastern member of the committee on banking and currency says:

Using War Tactics.

"It is a sectional question, but that is not our fault. Those fellows are extremely shortsighted. We think we were to injure the west. We should only injure ourselves, our stocks and bonds. A. W. Wright and others are interested in the property of the west, and if more money can be got from silver it would help the country. We should be set free, of course, but we have deliberately taken this thing out of the republican party especially."

It means, he added, that the wealthy in Wall street, of which so much is said, rather pleases very many if not a majority of the western and southern members. Most of them openly confess the obligation that whatever causes distress in Wall street and whatever checks speculation in grain and stocks is prima facie a good thing for the country. The long struggle has also made it pointedly evident that it is the policy of the money power to make every dollar on silver a source of a headache. And this does not mean the Republican party especially.

It means, he added, that the wealth of the country is in the hands of the rich.

"There is no end in talking," say these western men, "but to bring the fed up again. This is a sectional question, and we may as well treat it as such." And on this subject an eastern member of the committee on banking and currency says:

Using War Tactics.

"It is a sectional question, but that is not our fault. Those fellows are extremely shortsighted. We think we were to injure the west. We should only injure ourselves, our stocks and bonds. A. W. Wright and others are interested in the property of the west, and if more money can be got from silver it would help the country. We should be set free, of course, but we have deliberately taken this thing out of the republican party especially."

It means, he added, that the wealthy in Wall street, of which so much is said, rather pleases very many if not a majority of the western and southern members. Most of them openly confess the obligation that whatever causes distress in Wall street and whatever checks speculation in grain and stocks is prima facie a good thing for the country. The long struggle has also made it pointedly evident that it is the policy of the money power to make every dollar on silver a source of a headache. And this does not mean the Republican party especially.

It means, he added, that the wealth of the country is in the hands of the rich.

"There is no end in talking," say these western men, "but to bring the fed up again. This is a sectional question, and we may as well treat it as such." And on this subject an eastern member of the committee on banking and currency says:

Using War Tactics.

"It is a sectional question, but that is not our fault. Those fellows are extremely shortsighted. We think we were to injure the west. We should only injure ourselves, our stocks and bonds. A. W. Wright and others are interested in the property of the west, and if more money can be got from silver it would help the country. We should be set free, of course, but we have deliberately taken this thing out of the republican party especially."

It means, he added, that the wealthy in Wall street, of which so much is said, rather pleases very many if not a majority of the western and southern members. Most of them openly confess the obligation that whatever causes distress in Wall street and whatever checks speculation in grain and stocks is prima facie a good thing for the country. The long struggle has also made it pointedly evident that it is the policy of the money power to make every dollar on silver a source of a headache. And this does not mean the Republican party especially.

It means, he added, that the wealth of the country is in the hands of the rich.

"There is no end in talking," say these western men, "but to bring the fed up again. This is a sectional question, and we may as well treat it as such." And on this subject an eastern member of the committee on banking and currency says:

Using War Tactics.

"It is a sectional question, but that is not our fault. Those fellows are extremely shortsighted. We think we were to injure the west. We should only injure ourselves, our stocks and bonds. A. W. Wright and others are interested in the property of the west, and if more money can be got from silver it would help the country. We should be set free, of course, but we have deliberately taken this thing out of the republican party especially."

It means, he added, that the wealthy in Wall street, of which so much is said, rather pleases very many if not a majority of the western and southern members. Most of them openly confess the obligation that whatever causes distress in Wall street and whatever checks speculation in grain and stocks is prima facie a good thing for the country. The long struggle has also made it pointedly evident that it is the policy of the money power to make every dollar on silver a source of a headache. And this does not mean the Republican party especially.

It means, he added, that the wealth of the country is in the hands of the rich.

"There is no end in talking," say these western men, "but to bring the fed up again. This is a sectional question, and we may as well treat it as such." And on this subject an eastern member of the committee on banking and currency says:

Using War Tactics.

"It is a sectional question, but that is not our fault. Those fellows are extremely shortsighted. We think we were to injure the west. We should only injure ourselves, our stocks and bonds. A. W. Wright and others are interested in the property of the west, and if more money can be got from silver it would help the country. We should be set free, of course, but we have deliberately taken this thing out of the republican party especially."

It means, he added, that the wealthy in Wall street, of which so much is said, rather pleases very many if not a majority of the western and southern members. Most of them openly confess the obligation that whatever causes distress in Wall street and whatever checks speculation in grain and stocks is prima facie a good thing for the country. The long struggle has also made it pointedly evident that it is the policy of the money power to make every dollar on silver a source of a headache. And this does not mean the Republican party especially.

It means, he added, that the wealth of the country is in the hands of the rich.

"There is no end in talking," say these western men, "but to bring the fed up again. This is a sectional question, and we may as well treat it as such." And on this subject an eastern member of the committee on banking and currency says:

Using War Tactics.

"It is a sectional question, but that is not our fault. Those fellows are extremely shortsighted. We think we were to injure the west. We should only injure ourselves, our stocks and bonds. A. W. Wright and others are interested in the property of the west, and if more money can be got from silver it would help the country. We should be set free, of course, but we have deliberately taken this thing out of the republican party especially."

It means, he added, that the wealthy in Wall street, of which so much is said, rather pleases very many if not a majority of the western and southern members. Most of them openly confess the obligation that whatever causes distress in Wall street and whatever checks speculation in grain and stocks is prima facie a good thing for the country. The long struggle has also made it pointedly evident that it is the policy of the money power to make every dollar on silver a source of a headache. And this does not mean the Republican party especially.

It means, he added, that the wealth of the country is in the hands of the rich.

"There is no end in talking," say these western men, "but to bring the fed up again. This is a sectional question, and we may as well treat it as such." And on this subject an eastern member of the committee on banking and currency says:

Using War Tactics.

"It is a sectional question, but that is not our fault. Those fellows are extremely shortsighted. We think we were to injure the west. We should only injure ourselves, our stocks and bonds. A. W. Wright and others are interested in the property of the west, and if more money can be got from silver it would help the country. We should be set free, of course, but we have deliberately taken this thing out of the republican party especially."

It means, he added, that the wealthy in Wall street, of which so much is said, rather pleases very many if not a majority of the western and southern members. Most of them openly confess the obligation that whatever causes distress in Wall street and whatever checks speculation in grain